

Room 101: Goats

Goats... I hate goats!

What do they do, apart from sit there like a blob and eat? They are antisocial creatures that are only made to chase and eat the hair of eleven year olds. Even kids (baby goats) are vicious and crazy creatures, they are equipped with saw-like horns and dagger-like teeth.

They are rather greedy and eat your ice cream even when you have run away from said goat. They leak on items of clothing you actually like and make people laugh at you. Goats jump and scare you half to death; saliva coats their lips and they try to lick you.

They could spread diseases with this unsanitary behaviour.

Goat milk made products are disgusting, and 95% of people agree with me.

Room 101

Fortnite

I would like to put Fortnite into room 101, because children waste their own time on the computer until midnight or something like that; as well, they waste a lot of money on it. Furthermore, it's like the children are getting hypnotised to play it. Secondly, I think that this is why some children don't do, or finish their homework. Here is a true fact: one man spent up to a 100 hours playing Fortnite, and I feel like why are you wasting your time and health? Also, a lot of children get so mad if their parents turn it off, or delete the game. As a result, I think that Fortnite, should be put into room 101, and be banned FOREVER.

String cheese string cheese is just nasty! Like how do people eat it? It's slimy, looks artificial and it's disgusting. Why is it a thing? It's gross, slimy and chewy! Why is it so rubbery and why is it sometimes two different colors (have not worked)? I suggest you leave me alone when you have it! Instead of having string cheese you may as well chew on one of those long rubber things.

I would say 70% of people like string cheese but why though again it's gross! Is it even real or is it just a chunk of plastic? It looks like rubber. It is the worst thing ever! When people string it, it is not necessary! If you dropped it on the floor I bet it would bounce.

Room 101

The thing I want to put into Room 101 is hair bobbles. They REALLY annoy me. When you're in a rush and you can never find a bobble. It's so annoying especially when it's your last one and it snaps like why do they snap? It's really annoying. And I hate when you lose them it's so frustrating.

95% of people hate them especially when you buy 30 new bobbles and the second you get home they're gone, like where do they go? I hate when you have a bobble on your wrist and when you take it off your wrist, it leaves a red mark it really hurts. It's annoying when you pick your bobble up and it ever breaks, snaps, and stretches when all you want to have is pretty hair and get on with your day.

Broken brown bobbles all over my bed room floor. I'm sick of it! I must have a thousand broken and intact scattered round my room never to be used again. And the plastic on the bobbles that scratches you, when you try to do your hair it leaves a bright red scratch on your hand or wrist.
