Crystal froze

suddenly getting colder. I felt my face and all I could feel was ICE, then all of a sudden I knew what had happened. She had frozen me. She walked up to me again slapped me on the ice. This time it didn't hurt. She had unfrozen me. I held my hands over my eyes in pain, then I heard the door slam shut. I opened my eyes but there was nothing there. I shook my head in case I had a brain freeze but she had gone. I guess that was it. She had probably have had enough of me.
