

they glimmered when the sun shone on them. She had a rather big head for her neck to carry as it was quite small and skinny. I wondered how she ran with that big head of hers! Didn't it wobble about?

Who knows?

She was now running around the place not eating a thing just looking! She stopped for a second. Then she reached into her pocket and out came a gigantic apple! Even though ~~your~~ ^{you're} not supposed to run whilst eating but she did it all the time and her parents accepted this.

We came face to face and then she asked me, "What's your name?" Well that's what I thought she said. So I said in my quickest voice, "I'm Charlie Bucket," "Well Charlie my name is, Adilisa Sont and I love sport! I once won the Guinese World record for the gettest and the youngest girl in the world! I know amazing isn't it?" She continued. I noticed she spoke a bit slower when talking about Guinse world record breaking. I ^{presume} to make sure that I understood better and knew how great she was! I replied in astonishment, "That must have been quite hard!" "Nope," came the response, "It was perfectly easy, I could have ran it again and ^{the} ~~them~~ other runners would have still lost!" I said, "Really," trying not to sound sarcastic! She said even slower, "Yes really."

I replied, "Oh ok."

She said back at the normal speed of her voice, "Now Charlie are you gonna move or just stand there like a robot that's ran out of battery?"

"Er...er...er Ok," I said trembling a bit! Then I moved out of her way and thought to myself whether she would ever loose a race or eat an apple and it make her go overreal fat! I would probably die of laughter if that did happen! I don't think I will forget the day I met Adilisa Sont, a very fun fast day and I had met a young women that was a potential olympian!
